

ABSTRACT

A leak detection system for a flowing electrolyte battery comprises a manifold leak containment member associated with at least one manifold which provides flowing electrolyte to at least one stack of a flowing electrolyte battery and a provision for sensing a fluid leak within the at least one manifold leak containment member.